Pelita Moors has been passionate about real estate since being a first home buyer at 21 years old and moving with her military husband every two to four years. Pelita knew she wanted a path helping others, and guiding them through one of the biggest investments of their lives. She remembered the challenges she faced and wants to help make sure her clients do not face the same frustrations that so many home buyers experience today. With a degree in Interior Design, Pelita understands your home is your sanctuary.

Whether buying your first home or seeking the dream retirement residence, the experience should be nothing less than seamless. She believes that your home is more than a place to live, it's where you make treasured memories.

Her goal is to help clients navigate the often challenging waters of home buying and selling process, with the end result only being a wonderful experience. When she is not helping clients, she is enjoying Colorado camping in her RV with her husband, hiking, biking, or visiting with her grandchildren.
